Lions Score Big for Local Soccer Club with $1,500 Donation

White City / Emerald Park Lions Club supports youth soccer and builds momentum for more community service projects ahead.

Emerald Park, SK — The White City / Emerald Park Lions Club met with members of the White City Futbol Club at the Aspen Links Clubhouse to present a cheque for $1,500. The funds will go toward purchasing and replacing much-needed practice and game balls for the upcoming indoor soccer season.

"This donation will make a big difference for our young athletes," said representatives from the Futbol Club. "We're incredibly grateful to have the Lions Club supporting our teams and investing in youth sports right here in our community."

For the Lions, this was a milestone. "I'm so proud that we have a club truly dedicated to serving our community," said Lion

Nichole Posehn. "This was a milestone for our club — and we're really just getting started."

Lion Ken Morris shared, "The reason I joined was because I wanted to give back to the community." Lion Curtis Bullivant quoted, "I joined because the Lions has that small-town community spirit of helping."

Their words capture the essence of what being a Lion is all about — service, teamwork, and community connection.

Founded in 1917 by Melvin Jones in Chicago, Lions Clubs International is the world's largest service organization, with more than 1.4 million members in over 200 countries. Lions are recognized for hands-on service, and living out the global motto: "We Serve."

Locally, the White City / Emerald Park Lions Club continues that proud legacy through fundraising, partnerships, and volunteer projects. The group has already been active in the community — assisting at local events by bartending, cooking, and managing ticket tables at weddings, helping with school fundraisers, as well as helping at community celebrations, serving at pancake breakfasts, and running an Eyeglass Recycling Program to help those in need of vision care.

Lion Curtis Bullivant noted, "The Lions meet once a month at the White City Community Centre, and we are looking to expand our club. Come check one of our meetings out! Joining the Lions Club is a great way to serve the community you live in and make a lasting difference."

The White City / Emerald Park Lions Club is a service-based organization — members volunteer their time and effort to assist with events and initiatives and accept donations in return, which are reinvested directly into the community.

For more information or to get in touch with the White City / Emerald Park Lions Club, visit their Facebook page, contact a local member, or email wceplions treasurer@gmail.com.

Together, we make a difference — because "We Serve."

6 home maintenance tasks to tackle before the winter arrives

Canadian winter weather can be unpredictable. That's why it's good practice to ensure that you and your home are ready for whatever rolls in with the cold temperatures.

Make sure your furnace is in good working order. Book a furnace inspection before winter hits. Wait times can be longer as we get deeper into the season, and that's the worst time to make do without.

Regular maintenance and inspections can also save you money in the long run. Check your chimneys and wood burning equipment. They should be cleaned and inspected by a qualified professional, preferably Wood Energy Technology Transfer (WETT) certified, at least annually or after burning two cords of wood. Check for drafts and extra space. Look around your windows and doors where you can feel cold air and apply weather-stripping or sealant. Heat rises, so start with the basement. Let in natural heat and sunlight by opening curtains and blinds in the morning and closing them in the evening to trap warmth.

Protect your pipes. Water expands when it freezes, so severe cold snaps can put your pipes at risk of bursting. As part of your winter prep, turn off the water supply to all outdoor taps and faucets, then open the taps to drain them completely. Leave the taps in the open position until spring. Disconnect garden hoses and drain them completely. Store them in a warm location so any residual water won't freeze.

Put away seasonal items. If you haven't already, put away your patio tables and chairs, as well as your barbecue, if you're not planning to use it through the winter. Wash them with soapy water and dry them before storing. To avoid rust on barbecue grills, brush them with vegetable oil and place a grill protector over them.

Prep your lawn system. Before the frost hits, you'll want to drain your lawn sprinkler or irrigation system and have a professional complete any required repairs. Make sure sprinkler heads are appropriately marked to avoid any costly mistakes during snow removal.

With these tips, you're well on your way to weather-proofing your home this winter. But if anything happens, insurance providers like Belairdirect can help support you along the way with 24/7 claims service and digital tools that make submitting and tracking a claim easier. Don't fall for these common financial myths

When it comes to offering financial advice, it seems everyone's an expert these days. But it can be hard to know what's true and worth listening to. For help cutting through all the noise, here are four common financial myths worth dispelling:

1. You're too young or too old to start financial planning. It's never too soon or too late to build your financial portfolio, and there are various accounts you can open for whatever stage of life you're in. Remember, everyone moves at their own pace—what matters is building a plan that works for you.

2. All debt is bad debt. As a general rule, it's good to live within your means, but that doesn't mean you should completely avoid borrowing. Using debt responsibly (through credit cards or loans) helps build your credit score. Just remember to spend within your borrowing limit and always make your payments on time.

3. If your bank fails, you lose your money. Canada has established rules and organizations to ensure our financial system is strong, resilient and well-regulated. One of these organizations is the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation (CDIC). It exists to provide deposit protection to keep your money safe in the unlikely event one of its member institutions fails. They can help in many ways, such as restructuring the institution or reimbursing your insured money.

4. All financial products are protected equally. In Canada, there are different protection frameworks:

- Federal deposit insurance : Offered by the CDIC, it protects deposits such as term deposits, like guaranteed investment certificates (GICs), as well as cash accounts and even money in foreign currency in financial institutions that are members.
- Provincial deposit insurance: Each province has its own deposit protection for provincial credit unions.
- Investor protection:

Offered by the Canadian Investor Protection Fund, as well as some provincial bodies, it provides protection for other investments like mutual funds, stocks and bonds.

Knowing the facts can help you be better prepared financially. You can learn more about what's eligible for deposit insurance and how to calculate your coverage at cdic.ca.

An up-cooked protein bowl that's a good sustainable choice

Reducing food waste is important, but it doesn't have to mean sacrificing taste or nutrition.

One delicious way to cut waste at home is up-cooking: transforming leftovers into new dishes. Instead of tossing last night's dinner, try this hearty, protein-packed leftover bowl:

Leftover Chicken Harvest Bowl:

Prep time: 20 minutes

Cook time: 35 minutes

Makes: 4-6 servings

Ingredients:

- Leftover cooked chicken and roasted vegetables (or other available ingredients).
- ¼ cup (60 ml) olive oil
- 2 cups (500 ml) quinoa, cooked (or preferred cooked grains such as rice, barley, couscous, etc.)
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) balsamic vinegar (or dressing of choice)
- 1 lb (454 g) package baby spinach or kale
- 2 tbsp (30 ml) toasted nuts or seeds, finely chopped

Preparation:

1. Dice leftover chicken and roasted vegetables. Place into small mixing bowl.
2. Heat oil in a large nonstick skillet over medium high heat, stirring frequently for 2 to 3 minutes until just starting to brown and chicken is warmed through.
3. Add a handful of quinoa (or cooked grain of choice) and a splash of balsamic vinegar. Toss well.
4. Stir in fresh spinach or kale until wilted.
5. Garnish with toasted nuts or seeds for more crunch and extra protein.

This simple dish brings bold fall flavours to your table while keeping quality protein at the centre of your plate. One way to stay fueled during busy days without wasting food is to look at your fridge with fresh eyes. With a little creativity, yesterday's meal can become today's favourite. You can find more up-cooking ideas and ways to reduce food waste at mapleleaf.ca.

Building Community, One Connection at a Time

By the time you read this, it may or may not have snow yet — but we all know it's coming at some point! Last year, the Emerald Park Cross Country Ski Club was formed, and thanks to the generous support of Aspen Links Golf Course, our community was able to enjoy a beautiful groomed cross-country ski trail right through the course.

A big thank you goes out to the volunteers who helped groom and maintain the trails. Their efforts made it possible for so many residents to get outdoors and enjoy winter in a whole new way.

This year, the club's goal is to continue raising funds to purchase cross-country skis and snowshoes for community use — so anyone who wants to try out the sport can do so without needing to buy their own equipment.

The Cross Country Ski Club fundraises through events like the Irish Ice Festival in March and a series of Cornhole Tournaments held at the Aspen Links Events Centre, and donations from the RM Municipal Grant Fund. These tournaments feature 50% payouts, are open to all skill levels, and are always a great night out. In fact, the first tournament this fall was a sold-out success! I was there to hand out the cash prize and enjoy the night — it was such a fun event and wonderful to see the community come together in support of the club.

What's wonderful about this club is that it offers three great winter activities for everyone to enjoy — outdoor cross-country skiing, snowshoeing, and indoor cornhole tournaments that keep the fun going no matter the weather.

You can follow the Emerald Park Cross Country Ski Club on Facebook for updates. Once the trails are groomed and ready, the page will be updated with trail conditions and event details for cornhole and the Irish Ice Festival.

Nichole Posehn,
Division 3 Councillor

Off the Beaten Track

- By John Panter

The final (let us hope, for the sake of us beleaguered ratepayers) bills to the R.M. of Edenwold for the investigation/witch-hunt (no reflection on her) against councillor Posehn are in and paid. It has cost us $53,559.90 for the Buckingham (ahem) investigation and $6,693.30 for legal fees for a total of $60,253.30.

Part of the legal advice was, for reasons best understood by four councillors, ignored when the same councillors who testified as witnesses against Posehn, then sat in judgment of her. It would seem reasonable to follow legal advice if one is going to retain the lawyer to give it. Apparently not, for four R.M. councillors.

From the Department of Putting a Thumb on the Scale come two stories. White City's October InSight magazine has a glowing two-page advertorial on the Townhomes of Royal Park which would do an expensive advertising agency proud. Except Royal Park didn't have to pay for it. White City wrote it themselves.

And in the R.M. of Edenwold, the official notification of the Greensview apartment complex Public Hearing was circulated to only those residents of Emerald Park living within 800 metres of the project, excluding about half of the population. To repeat, thumbs on the scales.

The little town of Fenelon Falls, Ontario has a population, according to the 2021 census, of just a whisker under 2,500. In other words, less than half of the combined populations of White City and Emerald Park (5,255).

Somehow it has been able to sustain six churches over the years. Some have been functioning for decades and in a couple of cases for more than a century. I'm not saying that the residents of Fenelon Falls are closer to salvation than the folks in our community because of the presence of these churches, or their range of options for church attendance. But it is indisputable that they are an integral part of the spiritual, cultural and social fabric of Fenelon Falls. The church supporters were legend and perhaps still are.

Here in White City/Emerald Park our choices for a bit of spiritual salvation are limited to, well, let's face it, Ambassadors for Christ Church or nothing at all, and we thank James and Rebecca Oti-toju for their yeomanly service in that regard.

A resident of our local community has a line on a church within a hundred or so kms from here that happens to be for sale, and for a fairly reasonable price. It could presumably be moved here and set down, assuming a suitable piece of ground could be acquired.

The only reason I mention this now is to gauge whether or not there is interest within our communities to get involved in a project of this nature. Presumably it could serve various denominations on a rotational basis, and, because there would be a sizable basement under it, it could function as a sort of community centre or a venue for "town hall" meetings. I've seen photos of the church and it is quite beautiful too.

I'll start the conversation by saying I think it's a good idea.

4 cool home upgrades you didn't know about

it. It has the advantage of being more accessible than other types of showers, while also giving your bathroom a clean, minimalist look.

Convert to a heated driveway. Never want to shovel snow again? The next time you have your driveway resurfaced, consider having a heating element added below it. As an extra upside, it also means cutting down on pouring road salt all over your driveway and avoiding all that salty runoff into the grass or sewer.

Make the leap to smart home appliances. Smart appliances have been growing in popularity thanks to their ability to work effectively with less input. The technology is getting even better—think laundry machines that can tell what type of load you've put in and set themselves automatically. Or other appliances, like Samsung's Bespoke AI line, that can connect the smart devices in your home together to create a home environment that intuitively responds to you. They adapt to your routines and habits, anticipating what you need and can even alert you when they notice something unusual.

When you're upgrading your home, remember it's not just about the look. Go with the updates that make your home feel modern, make life easier and truly make the space your own.

Find out more at samsung.com/bespoke-home.

Everyone has their idea of a dream home. For some of us, that might mean having to look for a place in a new community or part of the country. But what if you can have the dream right where you are? Take your living space to the next level with these upgrades:

Put in some hanging chairs. This is one quick upgrade for your living area that takes hanging out to a whole new level. The trick with these chairs is to pick the right spot and leave enough space between them so that if a few folks are using them, nobody feels crowded. They can really transform your space and give any room a stylish, eye-catching look.

Switch to a zero-threshold shower. Also called a curbless shower, this design can transform your bathroom. It uses a trench drain and a slight slope to contain water in the shower area without the need for a curtain, shower door or lip to enter

How to navigate all those holiday deals

The holiday shopping season can be the perfect time to get a deal on wireless, internet or TV services, but it's easy to get swept up in the excitement. Avoid making a purchase decision you may later regret by following some simple tips:

Do your research. Stay confident and in control by looking into what options are available before you go out to buy anything. Going to service provider or retailer websites is a great way to compare different products and packages, as well as compare between providers. Keep a record of what you find, through notes or even screenshots. This can help you be confident in what exact terms providers are advertising, when it's time to buy.

Avoid the rush. Another advantage to researching in advance is that you'll probably know what you want before any shopping rushes start. Many providers have early bird pricing, and many offer extended deals after rush periods die down.

Review everything, before and after purchase. Always review the service documents before agreeing to anything, to avoid running into surprises later. If any of the information is unclear, ask questions. Some important things to check:

- Early termination fees and how they're calculated.
- The details of any device financing plans.
- If the listed price is a time-limited promotion or discount, and what the regular price is.

• If the terms of service let your provider increase prices or add service charges. Know your rights. Remember that you also have the right to a trial period when buying wireless services. As long as you haven't used more than half your monthly usage, you can cancel your contract and return the device without penalty within 15 days. Once your service starts, check your contracts and bills to make sure they match what you agreed to. If they don't, you can reach out to your service provider to fix the problem.

If your provider doesn't resolve the issue to your satisfaction, you still have options. You can lodge a complaint with the Commission for Complaints for Telecom-Television Services (CCTS). They're an independent agency that handles unresolved wireless, TV and internet service issues from thousands of Canadians each year. Learn more about resolving complaints with telecom providers at letsstayconnected.ca.
