DIY investing 101: How to get started

Self-directed or do-it-yourself (DIY) investing is an approach where you manage your investments yourself, giving you autonomy and control over what you buy and sell, and when.

There are plenty of DIY or self-directed investing platforms on the market, but Canadians may lack the necessary knowledge and support to set, track and achieve their financial goals.

However, DIY investing apps, such as TD Easy Trade, are designed to help investors set financial goals and then build the confidence to achieve them.

Here are some tips to help you get started.

Start investing as soon as you're ready

Smaller investments (less than $100 per month) are a great way to start. Many types of low-cost investments allow you to invest your money slowly over time, which works especially well if you're working toward long-term goals.

Set investment goals and stick to your plan

Investment goals are unique and specific to you, so they vary from one investor to the next. But every investor should be thinking about the end at the beginning.

A common misconception is that an investment goal needs to be a purchase, like a car or a house. But investing goals can also be monetary goals, such as having a regular stream of money coming in.

There are a few common questions you'll want to ask yourself when goal setting: What is your time horizon? Are your goals short (1-2 years), medium (2-5 years) or long-term (5+ years)? Are your goals fixed or flexible?

How you answer these questions will impact how you invest.

Know what kind of investor you are before you start

Before you start investing, you'll want to determine your risk tolerance, which is how much you can afford to lose without impacting your financial well-being, combined with how comfortable you are with taking risks in general.

Additionally, consider diversifying your investments across different asset classes to help mitigate risk. Diversification is an investment strategy where the investor's portfolio contains various assets that aligns to their risk profile. A diversified portfolio contains a mix of investments (i.e., stocks, commodities, bonds, etc.) that may react differently to the same economic event.

Do your homework

There's a lot of information – and misinformation – out there when it comes to investing. It can be overwhelming for new investors to sift through the noise, so it's important to do your homework first.

www.newscanada.com

Travelling can be a thrilling adventure, but you don't always need to leave your home to explore the world around you. If you can't make it to your dream destination this year, here are four ideas to experience new destinations from the comfort of your own home.

Cook it up

One of the best ways to get to know a place is through its food. So, for a creative way to expand your horizons, choose a recipe from your dream locale. You may have to buy some new ingredients, but there are endless amounts of free recipes online. There's sure to be one you can enjoy, no matter your cooking skills. Your library may also have some fresh cookbooks for you to try out.

Fuel the fantasy

Once you've enjoyed your meal, maybe get cozy on the couch with a movie or television series set in another place, from a Canadian independent film to a hit series from overseas. Embracing entertainment with a serious sense of place can be transporting.

4 budget-friendly ideas to explore the world without leaving home

Audiobooks, podcasts and local music let you experience places in an intimate way. And books offer that power too, so pore through your library's collection for your favourite genre set in a new-to-you place.

Learn online

Whether it's a history lecture, a language lesson or an art workshop, take a virtual course for a deep dive on just about any place. Massive open online courses, known as MOOCs, are free and wide-ranging, so see what you can find. Many museums and historic sites, including many across Canada, also offer immersive virtual guided tours on their websites or through Google Arts and Culture exhibits if you can't make it in person.

Get historical

History provides some context for why things are the way they are today and helps you understand a place better, even if you haven't been there (yet). And it doesn't have to be boring or expensive. For example, you can immerse yourself in a creative non-fiction option like Parks Canada's ReCollections podcast with episodes on some of the most significant historic sites in Canada from coast to coast, such as the Fortress of Louisbourg in Nova Scotia or Dawson City, Yukon. You can find it wherever you get podcasts or at parks.canada.ca/reollections.

Host an eco-friendly summer soiree with this planet-friendly summer salad

One of the most delicious things about summer is a seasonal salad that you can feel good about eating. Bonus points if it helps the planet.

You can do that with this recipe by choosing local blueberries, or foraging for them, and adding bacon from a carbon-neutral food company. Cheers to a mouthwatering meal, perfect for an eco-friendly summer soiree.

Bacon, Broccoli and Blueberry Salad

Prep time: 5 to 15 minutes
Makes: 4 to 6 servings

Ingredients:

375 g Maple Leaf Lazy Maple Natural Bacon, chopped into ¾-inch pieces
200 g broccoli florets, blanched and cooled
1 pint (0.6 L) of blueberries
1/3 cup (80 ml) feta, crumbled
2 tbsp (30 ml) slivered almonds, toasted

Dressing:

¼ cup (60 ml) extra virgin olive oil
2 tbsp (30 ml) honey
3 tbsp (45 ml) apple cider vinegar
½ tbsp (7.5 ml) bacon grease
Salt and pepper, to taste

Directions:

1. Heat skillet over medium-high heat. Cook bacon, stirring frequently until just crisp, about 4 to 6 minutes. Move onto paper towel-lined platter. Reserve ½ tbsp (15mL) of bacon grease.
2. In a small bowl, combine all the ingredients for the dressing and whisk well.
3. Add broccoli, blueberries, feta and half the bacon to a large bowl and drizzle dressing over top. Toss well to coat.
4. Garnish with remaining bacon, almonds and extra feta if desired.

Tip: Make it ahead. Double the recipe for the dressing and keep in an airtight container for up to a week. Find more summer recipes at mapleleaf.ca/recipes.

Willfulness in Young Children - By Gwen Randall-Young

level of development. They are learning to express their wishes, but they cannot fully express what they want, and we do not know what they are thinking. The result is a frustrated child and parents.

For the younger child, the best approach is mean business, and we can convey this with a firm voice tone. We do not need to yell or hit. Children can be given the choice of co-operating or being taken to their room. To frighten a child into co-operating undermines the integrity of the parent/child relationship.

often interpret anger as a sign that the parent does not love them. The expression of will in a child is not something to be extinguished. In fact, attempts to do so may only produce a backlash, if not now, then in later years. Remember, the way you talk to your child now when you are upset or frustrated, may be the way he or she talks to you during adolescence. Be cautious about what you are modeling.

Gwen Randall-Young is an author and award-winning psychologist. For permission to reprint this article, or to obtain books, CDs or MP3s, visit www.gwen.ca. Follow Gwen on Facebook for inspiration.

An infant does not have language, and the only way to show discomfort is to cry. Most parents do their darndest to figure out what the child needs. Even before they have language, they can turn their heads away if they do not want what is on the spoon the parent is offering.

Language develops as the infant grows. They are also tuned in to facial expressions and body language.

The reason they learn to say "no" is because parents have used that word a lot with them. They know what it means.

Somewhere between the ages of 2 and 4, children will begin to exercise their own wills. This is a normal and healthy development; however, when the child's will is in opposition to the parent's desires, problems may arise.

Sometimes parents see this as the beginning of defiance and try to force the issue of compliance. Naturally, force begets force, and the child may resist just as strongly as the parent insists. However, the parents need to train the child to "do as I say" at an early age, conflicts with their distraction, diversion, or making co-operation a fun game. The reason for this is that our goal is to teach the child appropriate behaviors while maintaining a healthy, loving relationship. It is not training for blind obedience. Yes, we want children to learn to do as they are told, but a child who always follows directives without question would be like a robot. We certainly do not want them to follow what others tell them to do, especially one peer influences become a factor.

We cannot expect to reason with a two or three-year old, but by the time a child is four, we can certainly be explaining our reasons for the requests we are making. It is important to acknowledge their feelings. After a certain point, children need to know we would likely have resulted in the mother of all lawsuits.

Off the Beaten Track

- By John Panter

Councillor Posehn (who tried to have this goofy plan taken off the table back in March) led off the discussion with a description of a May 3rd phone call advising her about the "contract" zones. (We can only speculate why the council wasn't made aware of the existence of these contracts, and the agreement between Great Plains and the RM, back in March before first reading of the bylaw was even considered.)

Posehn described the phone calls, emails, and petitions which she had been receiving from the public opposed to the plan. "Our reputation is on the line" is how she described any suggestion of the RM willfully breaching the "contracts."

Credit too, to councillor Leibel, who moved first reading back on March 12, for making the motion to rescind it once all of the facts were known and the public mood was determined.

If you say it fast, a home for Granny-in-the-Garage might seem appealing. But this was never about "Granny". It was about converting garages into apartments for who-knows-who.

A zoning by-law is an implied covenant between a municipality and the residents, present and future. Someone buying a home in Emerald Park has a right to expect stability in zoning regulations. Changing zoning, willy-nilly, would have been a breach of that covenant.

The R.M. of Edenwold called an emergency council meeting on May 9th to deal with the public feedback from the "Garage Suite" issue.

Actually, it was officially a Special Council Meeting. "Emergency meeting" is my terminology and I don't use the term lightly. "Public feedback" puts it mildly too. Outright public hostility is a more apt description of the reaction to a proposal to change Emerald Park's zoning by-law to allow residents to convert their garages into rental apartments.

The ball started rolling downhill on March 12th with first reading of a by-law to amend the zoning by-law. What Council didn't know at the time was that there are four neighbourhoods in Emerald Park (St Andrews Bay, Hogan Place, Woods Crescent and New Bay) which are "contract zones" stipulating that only single family dwellings are permitted.

An agreement between Great Plains Leaseholds Ltd. and the RM of Edenwold signed in 2018 also stipulated that another large chunk of Emerald Park could only be developed as single-family dwellings.

Any attempt by the RM to force this type of zoning in breach of the "contracts" and the 2018 agreement

And when we consider the apartment block proposal on Great Plains Road (up to 842 new residents) and the Sector Plan Analysis finalized in June 2022 which would see eight currently undeveloped areas in Emerald Park designated for higher density housing, there would seem to be no need for the higher density that would come with another family living in your neighbour's garage.

GREENALL Update GRIFFINS

@greenallschool Greenall High School

June Update

UPCOMING DATES:

- June 14 - Non Student Day
- June 24-28- Final Exams
- June 28th- Graduation Ceremony

Congratulations Griffins!

As featured last month, Katie Benesh had been chosen as a finalist for the Caring for our Watersheds contest. This month she travelled to Saskatoon to compete against 10 other finalists. Congratulations Katie for finishing 3 overall.

Greenall Girls Flag Football- Ready to make their mark this season!

Greenall is very proud to put 3 girls teams into the Regina High School Flag Football league this year. The league itself has grown this year from last years numbers of 371 players to over 500 this year. Greenall is very pleased to thank community coaches Ian Bonnell, Mike Kirby, Corey and Wanda Uhren for volunteering to give their expertise to the Junior program. Mr. Kruppi and Mrs. King are coaching the senior squad. Congratulations ladies, we look forward to seeing the Griffins take the field this spring. Go Griffins!

Congratulations to Grade 11 Greenall High School student Ty Gorniak for being chosen as a top football prospect for the upcoming CFC game.

Canadafootballchat.com (CFC) and The Sports Network (TSN) are ready to bring the top high school football talent in Canada to the national stage for the fourth edition of the CFC Prospect Game. The CFC Prospect Game, featuring 75 of the top Canadian high school prospects, is taking place at TD Place Stadium in Ottawa on Friday, May 31st at 11:15 a.m. EST. Good luck Ty!

Shared Literacy - The Grade 9 Digital Storybook Project

Many of Miss Marley's grade 9 English students had the opportunity to share and read aloud the digital storybooks they created this semester - many even included illustrations created using AI this year! They presented in classes from kindergarten through grade 4 and saw their target audience's authentic reactions to their work. The kids loved the stories about animals, dragons, friendship, tractors, and stinky shoes! Thank you to Mrs. Ursu, Mrs. Oswald, Mrs. Wagner, Ms. Mackenzie, and Mrs. Kalamán for sharing their spaces and students with us - much appreciated!
